

Antique Specimen Collector's Chest of Drawers, English, Artist's Case, Edwardian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25236

This is a fine antique specimen collector's chest of drawers. An English supply cabinet in walnut and milk glass, dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910. Originally commissioned as a dentist's case, this charming piece offers exceptional versatility for art supplies, crafting tools or haberdashery.

- Superb Edwardian craftsmanship, with quality walnut stocks displaying rich caramel hues and fine grain interest
- Reassuring solidity with a weight of 12.2kg (26.9 lb)
- Six graduated drawers, ideal for the organisation of smaller items – from brushes to threads or specimens
- Top-mounted compartment, offering additional storage beneath a hinged lid
 - Appealing milk glass drawer linings, in original condition, with minor historic cracking to a single pane adding authentic charm
- Chromed brass carry handle to the lid, partnered with a personalised name plaque for D.H. Barrett
- Dual chromed clasps secure the lid firmly in place for safe storage
- Each drawer held shut with a long removable securing pin
- Crafted by DCM Ltd, a maker of fine professional cases, originally tailored for dental instruments
- A striking and un...

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 36cm (14.25")

Max Depth: 25.5cm (10")

Max Height: 42cm (16.5")

