

Pair of Large Antique Garden Planters, English, Cast Iron, Jardiniere, Victorian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.9876

This is a pair of large antique garden planters. An English, cast iron planting bowl on pedestal base, dating to the late Victorian period, circa 1880. A delightfully rare and decorative set of substantial outdoor jardinières, with enduring appeal.

- Victorian charm throughout, ideal for the refined garden or grand terrace
- Crafted in cast iron, offering exceptional weight and structural integrity
- Presented in two parts, with a combined weight of 67.5kg (148.8 lb)
- Retains a fascinating aged finish, with natural weathering to the cream painted coat
- Embellished with relief cast detail, including classical vase and swag garland motif
- Broad rim edge adorned with egg and dart pattern, adding formal decorative interest
- Interior diameter offers generous planting space for floral displays or topiary
- Stands gracefully with a well-balanced stance and sculptural appeal

This is a superb opportunity to acquire a rare, matched pair of antique planters. These Victorian jardinière stands would make a distinguished statement within any traditional garden setting or orangery. Delivered ready to display.
