

Antique Tripod Shaving Mirror, English, Vanity Grooming Stand, Victorian, C.1840

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25343

This is an antique tripod shaving mirror. An English, mahogany and birch adjustable personal grooming stand, dating to the early Victorian period, circa 1840. A superbly crafted and highly functional piece, ideal for the discerning collector or gentleman's dressing room.

- Fine early Victorian craftsmanship, with beautifully figured mahogany and birch throughout
- Desirably aged mirror plate, offering a clear reflection with minor historic markings
- Adjustable height and angle, aided by a refined brass vernier mechanism, rotating through 180°
- Demi-lune compartment lids open to reveal a charming birch-lined interior with caramel tones

- Mirror plinth framed in mahogany with elegant bevelled edge moulding
- Decorative acanthus bulb carving to the upright support, showcasing quality hand-carved work
- Raised upon a distinctive tripod base, with bold cabriole legs and graceful scrolled toes

- Rich colour palette and wax polish finish enhance the warm tones of the period
