

Antique Whiskey Decanter, English, Glass, Scotch, Barware, Victorian, Circa 1900

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25160

This is a fine antique whiskey decanter, presenting a striking faceted form in quality English glass, dating to the late Victorian period, circa 1900. A refined piece, ideal for the collector or connoisseur of period barware.

- Distinctive faceted body with tapering form and elegant domed neck
- Starburst cut to the base, catching the light with delightful effect
- Original toadstool-shaped stopper, neatly cut with a gemstone-like finish
- Stopper seats neatly within a flared rim, ensuring a secure fit
- In good antique condition, with only light internal residue commensurate with age and gentle use
- Ideal for Scotch, whiskey or fine liqueurs, and a handsome addition to a drinks cabinet or sideboard
- A fine companion to a traditional gentleman's study, drawing room, or vintage-inspired barware display

An elegant and useful example of late 19th century glass craftsmanship, this Victorian whiskey decanter delights with its refined form and subtle period detail. Delivered ready for the home.

+44 (0) 207 1833 511
Search London Fine for #25160, or scan the QR code for more photos and details
London Fine Ltd
The Antique Village
The Old Whiteways Cider Factory
Hele, Devon, EX5 4PW

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 11cm (4.25")

Max Depth: 11cm (4.25")

Max Height: 26cm (10.25")

LIST PRICE

£595.00

sales@londonfine.co.uk

E. & O. E.