

Antique Two Tier Jardiniere, English Cake Stand, Torchere, Early Victorian, 1840

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25336

This is a fine antique two tier jardiniere. An English, mahogany cake stand or torchère, dating to the early Victorian period, circa 1840. Rich in character and form, this versatile piece offers superb display options with classic period appeal.

- Beguiling early Victorian design, offering decorative charm and practical versatility
- Crafted from select stocks, presenting deep caramel tones and fine grain interest
- Two generous tiers provide ample space for display or floral arrangements
- Distinctive serpentine supports rise with sculptural elegance, meeting the upper tier with finesse
- Tactile chamfered edging lends visual refinement and smooth handling
- Elegant scroll surmounts gracefully crown the form, flanking a striking suspended finial
- Raised upon a trio of swept legs, creating a stable base with appealing silhouette
- Well-suited as a cake stand, plant display, or occasional torchère, lending height and interest to interior schemes
- In very good antique order, lightly time-worn consistent with age and use
