

Small Antique Artists Stool, English Beech, Country Studio, Victorian, C.1890

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25378

This is a delightful small antique artist's stool, of charming English craftsmanship in beech, dating to the late Victorian period, circa 1890. Compact in form and full of rustic charm, it is ideal for easel work or studio seating.

- Late Victorian joint stool with endearing country studio appeal
- Crafted from quality beech, offering warm caramel hues and attractive grain figuring
- Gently dished seat with superb figuring, displaying a natural, lightly time-worn finish
- Raised upon turned and collared legs, united by classic stretcher rails for added strength
- Solid and stable with a useful seat height of 50cm (19.75") - offers comfortable seating in front of an easel or potter's wheel
- Light, compact form for easy repositioning around a studio or interior

A fine example of period studio furniture, this Victorian artist's stool offers both practical use and aesthetic warmth to creative or traditional settings. Solid joints and constructions, delivered ready to enjoy.
