

Antique Six Division Stick Stand, English, Brass, Hall, Umbrella Rack, Edwardian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25425

This is an antique six division stick stand. An English, brass clerk's office or reception hall umbrella rack, dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910. With brightwork charm and robust form, this practical piece is well-suited to both the refined home and institutional interior.

- Attractive Edwardian umbrella stand with timeless utility and decorative appeal
- Crafted in polished brass, displaying a striking golden tonality with light ageing commensurate with use
- Comprises a set of six upper divisions, ideal for umbrellas, walking sticks or canes
- Raised brass finials to each corner add an elegant finishing touch
- Suitable for placement in the hallway, boot room or office reception
- Offers period authenticity with enduring, low-maintenance function

This antique brass umbrella rack delivers a wonderful balance of Edwardian character and daily practicality, making it a superb choice for the heritage hallway or professional interior. Delivered ready for the home or institution.

Search London Fine for #25425 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 31cm (12.25")
 Max Depth: 19cm (7.5")
 Max Height: 65cm (25.5")
 Division Width: 8.5cm (3.25")
 Division Depth: 6.5cm (2.5")

