

Antique Campaign Apothecary Box, English, Chemist's Case, Georgian, Circa 1780

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25415

This is an antique campaign apothecary box. An English, flame mahogany chemist's case, dating to the Georgian period, circa 1780. A superb and evocative example of 18th century portable medical storage, with fine quality materials and construction throughout.

<li class="p1">Fascinating Georgian chemist's case, steeped in period charm and practical ingenuity

<li class="p1">Crafted from select flame mahogany, offering warm caramel tones and fine grain interest

<li class="p1">Dressed with brass corner caps and a recessed brass carry handle to the lid

<li class="p1">Lid opens to reveal 14 individually sized compartments with gently timeworn lining

<li class="p1">Lower drawer hosts four further sections, including a pair of lidded caddies for tools or ingredients

<li class="p1">Through pin with polished brass tip secures the lower drawer for travel or display

<li class="p1">Fascia adorned with a shield-shaped lock escutcheon – key absent

<li class="p1">Displays a fine balance of form and function, perfect for collectors of 18th century medical antiques

A delightfully presented example of Georgian field medicine, this antique campaign apothecary box makes for an intriguing conveyance.

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 17cm (6.75")

Max Depth: 17cm (6.75")

Max Height: 19cm (7.5")

LIST PRICE

£1,495.00

sales@londonfine.co.uk

E. & O. E.

London Fine Ltd
The Antique Village
The Old Whiteways Cider Factory
Hele, Devon, EX5 4PW