

Antique Ram's Head Fire Poker, English Wrought Iron, Aries, Fireplace, Edwardian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25363

This is an antique ram's head fire poker. An English, hand-forged wrought iron fireside tool, dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910.

- A charming example of English country house character
- Fine wrought ironwork, shaped with traditional blacksmithing techniques
- Displays light weathering and excellent patina, commensurate with age
- The ram's head finial, masterfully sculpted, with twist-curled horns and bold expression
  - Graceful twist motif adorns the shaft, leading the eye to a faceted poker tip
  - Substantial in the hand, yet elegantly balanced ideal for practical or decorative use
- A thoughtful gift for those born under the Aries star sign or collectors of zodiacal décor
- Perfectly suited for a farmhouse hearth, cottage interior, or traditional fireplace setting

A striking and spirited example of Edwardian craftsmanship, this antique fire poker bears both sculptural form and enduring function. A fine addition to any period fireplace suite

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 4cm (1.5") Max Depth: 3cm (1.25") Max Length: 51cm (20")

