

Vintage Recumbent Lion, French, Bronze, Marble, After Canova, Mid 20th Century

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25513

This is a vintage recumbent lion. A French, animalier figure in bronze and marble, after Antonio Canova, dating to the mid 20th century, circa 1950.

- A striking mid-century interpretation of Canova's classical lion sculpture
- Cast in substantial bronze, showcasing exceptional detail to the musculature and flowing mane
- The recumbent pose exudes a sense of regal calm and timeless strength
- Mounted upon a solid black marble plinth, accented with natural white striata veining
- Dressed to the base with a protective leather covering
- Weighs approximately 6.12kg (13.49 lb), offering a reassuring presence and tactile heft
- Ideal as a desktop ornament, mantelpiece feature, or statement paperweight
 - Marked 'Bonheur Paris' for Isidore Jules Bonheur, a recreation of the original sculptures by the Venetian Antonio Canova
 - A fine piece for collectors of French bronzes, neoclassical décor, or animalier sculpture
