

Large Antique Planter, Scottish, Ceramic Jardinière, Majolica Taste, Victorian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25447

This is a large antique planter, a Scottish ceramic jardinière in the manner of Majolica, dating to the late Victorian period, circa 1880.

Of generous proportion, offering excellent capacity for decorative planting
 Crafted in quality ceramic, presenting a weighty, substantial feel at 15.4kg (33.95 lb)

Finished in a distinctive slip glaze, with amber, cream and green tones forming a striking palette

Decorative relief fascia, featuring bountiful urns and grapevine motifs

Cup handles elegantly integrated into the form, shaped within the glaze itself

Ideal for interior or conservatory display – perfectly suited for foliage, ferns, or floral arrangements

Embodies the richness of late 19th century British decorative pottery

A statement piece for traditional Victorian, Arts & Crafts, or country house settings
