

Antique Fireside Store, English, Handbeaten Copper, Coal Bin, Victorian, C.1900

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25312

This is an antique fireside store. An English, handbeaten copper and brass coal or log bin, dating to the late Victorian period, circa 1900.

- Delightfully hand-crafted fireside storage with appealing smithy character
- Rich amber tones radiate from the rolled and beaten copper body
- Enhanced by decorative rivet work, contributing to a robust, authentic appearance
- Fitted with a pair of shaped brass handles, adding practical elegance
- Raised upon a trio of fine paw feet, cast in brass with superb detail
- Engraved to the base with maker's name Bamford
- Perfectly suited for storing logs, coal, or kindling beside a traditional hearth
- A stylish and functional addition to country house fireplaces or period interiors

With its substantial form, fine materials, and warm tones, this antique copper bin offers both practical fireside utility and decorative appeal, embodying the charm of late Victorian craftsmanship. Delivered ready for the home.
