DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25315

This is a large antique mortar & pestle. An English, apothecary or country kitchen grinding set in ceramic and beech, dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910.

- Substantial Edwardian mortar and pestle set, ideal for kitchen or decorative display
- Crafted in heavy ceramic, with a robust form and pleasing tactile presence
- Mortar finished in a soft cream tone, with an impressive weight of 5.49kg (12.10 lb)
- Engraved to the base with a number 8 and Made in England mark
- Fine pestle with a smoothly rounded ceramic grinding dome
- Handle crafted from beech, presenting a warm colour and comfortable grip
- Designed for both culinary grinding and apothecary preparation
- A charming addition to a country kitchen, rustic interior, or vintage chemist's display

With its combination of substantial proportion, quality materials, and period charm, this antique mortar and pestle embodies the practical elegance of Edwardian Britain, equally suited for functional use or stylish presentation. Delivered ready for the home.
