

Antique County Map, Cheshire, English, Framed Cartography, Robert Morden, 18th.C

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25580

This is an antique county map of Cheshire, an English framed cartographic engraving by Robert Morden, dating to the early Georgian period, circa 1720. A charming and historically rich representation of the county, this Victorian period hand-coloured engraving captures the elegance of early 18th century mapmaking.

- Fascinating 18th century map of the County and Palantine of Chester, brimming with historic detail and charm
- Posthumous reproduction of Robert Morden's celebrated work, as published in Magna Britannia by Thomas Cox, 1720
- Engraved cartography displays the administrative Hundreds and antique spellings of familiar towns and regions
- Hand coloured accents enrich the visual appeal, with delicate tonality throughout

- Presented in a tasteful later frame, offering sympathetic enhancement to the period character
- Glazed with clear glass, protecting the map while ensuring excellent clarity

- Dressed to the rear with mounting braid, ready for immediate wall hanging
- A wonderful piece for collectors of early British cartography, with a fondness...
