DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25634

This is an antique horse doorstop. An English, brass equine door keeper, dating to the late Victorian period, circa 1880. A charming example of Victorian domestic décor, combining function with equestrian style.

- Delightful Victorian period doorstop from the late 19th century
- Brass casting with warm golden tones and attractive patina
- Horse presented in profile, standing with one hoof raised
- Detailed with reins for a lifelike equestrian finish
- Raised upon a plinth base for stability and balance
- Good weight at 2.668kg, ideal for medium-sized doors

This antique horse brass doorstop is a functional yet decorative piece, perfect for collectors of Victorian brassware, equestrian antiques, or country house interiors. Delivered ready for the home.
