

Antique Lord Bury 4 Draw Telescope, English, Terrestrial, JH Steward, Victorian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25560

This is an antique Lord Bury 4 draw telescope. An English, leather and brass terrestrial or astronomical refractor by J.H. Steward of London, dating to the Victorian period, circa 1880.

Perfect for bird watching, landscape appreciation, wildlife, or maritime observation. Equally suitable for observing the night sky.

- A captivating and pleasingly tactile Victorian telescope
- Displaying a desirable aged patina, in good original order
- Dashing appearance, dressed discretely in lightly time worn black leather
- Polished brass draw barrels show bright golden tones
- Replete with a protective leather end cap for the front element
- Presenting a clear, bright optical performance with a 40mm (1.5") primary objective lens
- Swivel type dust cover to the concentric ring decorated eyecup
- Each of the four draw tubes offer a reassuring pull
