

Pair of Vintage Pagoda Lanterns, Japanese, Cast Iron Tea Light Holders, Art Deco

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25604

This is a pair of vintage Pagoda lanterns. A Japanese, painted cast iron tea light holder, dating to the Art Deco period, circa 1930. Wonderfully decorative and versatile, these lanterns can be used free-standing or suspended, bringing an elegant Japanese accent to porches, verandas, or interiors.

class="p1">Cast iron construction finished in a lightly time-worn vermillion hue Striking hexagonal roof in Pagoda style, rising prominently above the body Body host to crosshatched fretwork with bulbed form, enhancing the play of candlelight

class="p1">Small door to the fascia opens to reveal a 5cm diameter tea light holder class="p1">Each lantern fitted with a folding hanging loop to the domed lid for elevation class="p1">Charming as porch, veranda, or garden lanterns, equally at home indoors class="p1">Standing upon a trio of splayed legs for situating along a sideboard or table

class="p1">Distinctive blend of Art Deco style and Japanese design tradition
