

Trio of Antique Sauce Dishes, English, Silver Plated, Condiment Pots, Edwardian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25427

This is a trio of antique sauce dishes. An English, silver plated condiment pot set, dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910. Delightfully presented, these small serving dishes offer a refined way to present condiments at the dinner table.

- <li class="p1">Crafted in quality silver plate with a reflective, lightly time-worn finish
- <li class="p1">Tactile, gently arched handles opposite raised pouring spouts
- <li class="p1">Wavy swag finish to the dish edges adds decorative interest
- <li class="p1">Each raised upon shaped feet, ensuring stability on the table
- <li class="p1">Maker's marks to the base - two dishes by Mappin & Webb and one by Lee & Wigfull
- <li class="p1">Ideal for presenting mustards, sauces, or relishes in elegant style

This antique trio of silver plated condiment pots is a delightful addition to a refined dining table, offering Edwardian charm and enduring quality craftsmanship. Delivered ready for the table.

Search London Fine for #25427 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 8.5cm (3.25")
 Max Depth: 15cm (6")
 Max Height: 9cm (3.5")

LIST PRICE

£795.00

