

Antique Jardiniere Dish, Japanese, Meiji, Bronze, Decor, Planter Bowl, Victorian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25624

This is an antique jardiniere dish. A Japanese, a bronze Meiji era decorative planter bowl, dating to the late Victorian period, circa 1900. A fine example of Meiji-jidai artistry, showcasing the classic dragon motif alongside foliate and bird decoration.

- <li class="p1">Crafted from quality bronze, presenting deep golden tones
- <li class="p1">Fascia adorned with engraved detail, cascading around the circumference
- <li class="p1">Superb serpentine dragon motif, with three toes in the traditional Japanese style
- <li class="p1">Further enriched with bird and foliate embellishments
- <li class="p1">Gently aged patina, the result of decades of careful use
- <li class="p1">Raised upon a circular footer, with a character mark to the reverse for authenticity

This antique Japanese jardiniere dish offers superb decorative presence, ideal for display as a collector's item or as a statement planter bowl within a period or contemporary setting. Delivered ready for display.

Search London Fine for #25624 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 21.5cm (8.5")
 Max Depth: 21.5cm (8.5")
 Max Height: 15cm (6")
 Opening Diameter: 18.5cm (7.25")

LIST PRICE

£695.00

