

Antique Gentleman's Sporrans Chest, Scottish, Sock Drawers, Victorian, Circa 1850

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25640

This is an antique gentleman's sporrans chest. A Scottish, mahogany collector's cabinet, dating to the early Victorian period, circa 1850. Of graceful proportion and appealing colour, this chest offers both practicality and refined character, being ideal for a gentleman's dressing room or collector's display.

- Displays a charming Victorian elegance, suitable for the refined interior
- Handcrafted from select mahogany stocks showing fine grain interest throughout
- Boasts a rich caramel tone and smooth, wax-polished finish enhancing the natural patina
- Comprising five drawers, each fitted with inset brass locks — untested, key absent
- Drawer fronts adorned with pairs of brass recessed cup handles
- Each drawer sliding smoothly - ideal for jewellery, curios, or gentleman's accessories
- Chamfered corners gently soften the chest's form, lending a tactile quality
- Raised upon a continuous plinth base, ensuring stability and presence

A most attractive example of early Victorian storage furniture, this mahogany sporrans chest presents a superb combination of form and function. Rich in tone and craftsmanship, it will bring a touch of ...
