

Large Antique 4-Panel Privacy Screen, English Room Divider, Needlepoint, Regency

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25663

This is a large antique 4-panel privacy screen. An English, rosewood and needlepoint room divider, dating to the Regency period, circa 1820. An elegant and beautifully detailed example, this divider presents exquisite embroidered panels and showcases the refinement and artistry of early 19th century interior design.

class="p1">Crafted from select stocks displaying fine grain interest and warm caramel hues class="p1">Features a four-panel folding form, allowing flexibility for room division or decorative placement class="p1">Each panel hosts richly embroidered needlepoint scenes, with figural, wildlife, and foliate motifs class="p1">Needlework arranged in three or five detailed vignettes per section, each showcasing remarkable craftsmanship class="p1">Panels framed in elegant walnut borders, complementing the warmth and depth of the textile tones class="p1">Smooth rotating hinges allow for easy adjustment and stable folding action

DIMENSIONS

/strong>: (As Displayed)
Width: 230cm (90.5")
Depth: 40cm (15.75")
Height: 202.5cm (79.75")
Folded Depth: 10.5cm (4.25")

LIST PRICE

£4,950.00

sales@londonfine.co.uk