

Antique Tripod Table, English, Tilt Top, Side, Occasional, Wine, Lamp, Georgian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25712

This is an antique tripod table. An English, mahogany tilt-top side table with birdcage mount, dating to the Georgian period, circa 1800. A superb example of Georgian craftsmanship, offering a tilting and rotating top for versatility and timeless charm.

- Quality antique stocks display fine grain interest and rich russet hues
- Circular top with a wonderful finish, ideal for afternoon tea or decorative display
 - Rotating birdcage mount allows smooth movement for convenient serving or placement
 - Tilting mechanism articulates through 90°, enabling compact storage when not in use
- Stout tapering column provides strong visual balance and stability
- Tripod base with broad cabriole legs resting upon slipper feet, displaying classic Georgian restraint
 - Displays a desirable aged patina, with gentle signs of use consistent with two centuries of careful enjoyment
 - Ideal for afternoon fancies, glasses of wine or lamp positioning in refined settings
