

Antique Casablanca Travel Trunk, African, Leather, Portmanteau Case, Edwardian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25708

This is an antique Casablanca travel trunk. A North African, leather portmanteau case dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910. A charming and tactile example, rich in colour and decorative appeal.

- Delightful Edwardian travel trunk of North African origin
- Quality deep red leather presents a gently time-worn patina
- Robust construction, braced with tin strapping for added strength
- Tin base with wooden skids provides stability and durability
- Stout lid opens at the three-quarter point upon prominent external hinges dressed in leather
 - Interior lined with a striking Oriental peony pattern, displaying scarlet and soft pastel hues
 - Leather surfaces accentuated with stitched decorative motifs throughout
- Lid held securely with a long strap clasp, with retaining loop ideal for a padlock
- Brass drop handles mounted upon attractive backplates to each side
