

Set of 4 Antique Station Chairs, English Beech Dining Seat, Reception, Edwardian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25916

This is a set of 4 antique station chairs. An English, beech reception or dining seat, dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910.

- Attractive in form and colour, with period appeal and versatility
- Crafted in beech, exhibiting fine grain interest and rich caramel hues
- Bowed crest rail embellished with scrolled notches to the ears
- Four turned spindles framed with a pair of oblique baluster supports create the back rest
- Circular squabs with gently recessed seat, each displaying delightful figuring
- Raised upon turned legs, accentuated with collared detail
- Each leg united by H-stretchers for added stability and longevity
- Ideal for an entrance hall, reception area, or as occasional dining seating

A wonderfully presented quartet of Edwardian station chairs, offering warmth, charm, and practical seating for any traditional interior. Solid joints and construction, delivered ready for the home or institution.
