

Antique Food Warmer, English Ceramic, Silver Plate, Chafing Heat Dish, Edwardian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 25957

This is an antique food warmer. An English, ceramic and silver plated chafing dish or heat plate, dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910. A charming and practical serving piece, combining decorative appeal with functional design for table or sideboard use.

- A delightful Edwardian chafing dish with enduring utility and charm
- Displays a gently time-worn patina from careful use
- Crafted in quality painted ceramic with silver plated fittings
- Distinctive broad handles with a serpentine profile
- Designed for effective heat retention and serving convenience
- Ceramic warming dish finished in a distinctive bottle green hue
- White ceramic interior in pleasingly clean condition
- Silver plate displays a bright, fine tonality and presented in good order
- Distinctive footer with rotary knob access to the fuel repository

Search London Fine for #25957 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

- Max Width: 33cm (13")
- Max Depth: 22cm (8.75")
- Max Height: 18cm (7")
- Internal Diameter: 17cm (6.75")
- Internal Height: 4cm (1.5")

LIST PRICE

£795.00

