

Antique Fall Front Bureau, English, Walnut, Writing Cabinet, Georgian, C.1750

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 26075

This is a large antique fall-front bureau. An English, walnut six-drawer writing cabinet, dating to the Georgian period, circa 1750. Presenting refined 18th century craftsmanship, this bureau presents a delightfully executed writing interior with fine detailing and excellent utility.

- Attractive Georgian bureau, offering period charm and fine proportion
- Crafted from select walnut stocks, with warm caramel hues and prominent grain interest
- Walnut accentuated with crossbanded herringbone stringing to fascia and drawer fronts
- Fall-front writing slope opens smoothly, resting upon a pair of sliding lopers
- Writing surface set at a comfortable height of 80cm (31.5") - ideal for everyday use
- Finished with a classic bottle green baize skiver, lightly time-worn with character
- Interior reveals a suite of pigeonholes, and striking concave drawer fascia
- Central slide opens and tucks away beneath the gallery for further storage
- Graceful brass hardware - including batwing backplates and shaped drop handles
