

Antique Writing Desk, English, Edwardian, Mahogany, Knee-Hole, Circa 1910

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.5705

This is an antique writing desk, an English, Edwardian, mahogany knee-hole desk dating to the early 20th century, circa 1910.

- An attractive writing desk of good proportion
- Select mahogany displaying rich tones of russet hues
- Grain interest throughout with a desirable aged patina
- Gentle bow front and raised on inlaid, tapering legs over brass castors
- Quality, shaped, blind tooled skiver writing surface
- Backed by two banks of stationery drawers flanking an up-stand
- Crowned with a three-quarter, pierced brass gallery
- Two banks of three, graduated drawers provide ample storage
- Complimented by a broad 'over-knee' frieze drawer
- All drawers featuring crossbanded decoration and solid brass drop handles
- Brass key hole linings, brass locks with working key

Search London Fine for #18.5705, or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 122cm (48")
Max Depth: 66cm (26")
Max Height: 96cm (37.75")
Knee Hole Width: 50.75cm (20")
Knee Hole Height: 62cm (24.5")
Desk Height: 77cm (30.25")

