

An Edwardian Mahogany Sideboard, c.1910

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # LFA-1231 This is an English antique, Edwardian sideboard dating to c.1910. Raised on slender, elegant, tapering, square section legs terminating in spade feet, this mahogany sideboard is shallow in depth and would serve equally well as a hall or side table. Finished to a deep, lustrous shine, the top is backed by a shaped up-stand. The single, full width, cock beaded frieze drawer is highlighted in flame mahogany and dressed with twin, solid brass, swan neck handles. Opening the drawer reveals generous, baize lined storage divided into five compartments; Ideal in the dining room for cutlery and tableware or keys and phones in the hall. A super antique. Delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
