

Antique Victorian Screen, English, Limed Oak, Cane, Room Divider, Wall Panel

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 11.3282

This is an antique Victorian screen. An English, limed oak and cane room divider or wall panel and dating to the late 19th century, circa 1890.

- Pleasingly weighted, versatile screen
- Displays a desirable aged patina
- Limed Oak showing distinctive marking commensurate with age
- Bergere cane in concentric pattern and good order throughout
- Carved pediment to each panel with foliate and scroll detail
- Further decoration with winged dragons and pattern borders
- Turned finials adorn each panel – some application visible under closer inspection
- Original wooden hinges for folding from concertina to flat
- Decorated with a three colour coat of arms featuring a trio of salt cellars, a pair of fish and a lion
 - Canework presented against a light blue silk ground
 - Lower panels to the fascia and rear finished in natural jute

Search London Fine for #11.3282 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

- Max Width: 242cm (95.25")
- Max Depth: 15cm (6")
- Max Height: 182.5cm (71.75")
- Folded Width: 63cm (24.75")

