

Edwardian Corner Wardrobe, Waring & Gillow, c.1910

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # LFA-1273 This is an antique, Edwardian, oak corner wardrobe dating to c.1910. Made by the renowned Lancastrian based firm of Waring & Gillow Ltd (the name plate inside the door along with impressed stamp above the open door) this wonderful oak piece is raised on a plinth base and features three rows of field panels with the upper row displaying carved linen folds beneath a decorative row of half-flute carvings capped with quadrant moulding. Behind the door, dressed with solid brass pull on pierced back plate, the main compartment is divided into two sections; the upper features six brass coat hooks to the rear and a central triple hook suspended from the top. A shelf at the bottom providing double height shoe storage. To the rear of the door a framed, square mirror plate sits above four umbrella clamps with a low, removable drip tray for convenience. A super cabinet of good quality construction and finish, delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
