

Antique Adjustable Fire Screen, Walnut, Needlepoint, Decorative, Pole, Regency

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.7030

This is an antique adjustable fire screen. An English, walnut and needlepoint decorative pole screen, dating to the Regency period, circa 1820.

- A screen with beautiful carved craftsmanship
- Displaying a desirable aged patina
- Rich walnut stocks with fine grain interest and deep caramel hues
- Needlepoint tapestry panel presented behind glass
- The upright pole topped by a discrete acorn finial
- Carved leaf surmount to frame with scrolled details
- Striking bouquet tapestry with wonderful colour
- Elegant barley twist supports to each side
- Panel adjusts for height upon rear pole, loosened by a small brass twist knob
- Lower support delights with twist reed balusters and ring-spun finish
- Tri-form base with central drop pendant finial

Search London Fine for #18.7030 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 62cm (24.5")
 Max Depth: 46cm (18")
 Max Height: 135.5cm (53.25")
 Panel Width: 51cm (20")
 Panel Depth: 63cm (24.75")
 Panel Adjustment: 80cm (31.5")

LIST PRICE

£1,195.00

