

Rare, Pair Of, Antique Peacock Fire Screens, English, Brass, Fireside, Victorian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.7000

This is a rare, pair of antique peacock fire screens. An English, brass fireside fan, dating to the mid-Victorian period, circa 1850.

- Decorate the fireside with superb elegance
- Displaying a desirable aged patina, with each fold in very good order
- Striking pierced brass a testament to the craftsmanship
- Natural golden hues and highlight tones to the pair
- Of the time and exuberance of the Great Exhibition at the Crystal Palace, London
- Small baluster finials sit at the surmount above the shaped frame
- Decorated with dashing sash garlands and royal portrait medallions
- Nine pierced fans concertina out in the manner of a peacock's tail
- Smooth motion to each fan - held securely with sliding clasps
- Raised upon a tapering base with four individual scroll feet

Search London Fine for #18.7000 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

- Max Width: 26.5cm (10.5")
- Max Depth: 14.5cm (5.75")
- Max Height: 68.5cm (27")
- Fanned Width: 96.5cm (38")

