

Antique Dressing Screen, Italian, Mahogany, Privacy, Room Divider, Victorian

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.7113

This is an antique dressing screen. An Italian, painted mahogany privacy screen or room divider, dating to the late Victorian period, circa 1880.

- Furnish your room with Italianate elegance
- Displaying a desirable aged patina and in good order
- Later painted mahogany with bountiful carved details
- Quality original bevelled glass
- Three tall panels concertina smoothly from folded to full extension
- Crossed wheat sheaf decorations top each panel, presented against a spring flower ground
- Continuous link border to the frame edge with secondary borders to panel inserts
- Silk cotton panels offer shimmering golden tones with repeating star pattern
- Large field panels decorate the lower - a sprouting flower vase elaborates with scrolled vine forms

This is an inviting antique dressing screen, with appealing Italianate finish and mellow painted hues. The quality silk cotton panels add warmth to the whole, making it ideal for the bedroom or dressing room. Solid joints and construction, delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.

+44 (0) 207 1833 511

Search London Fine for #18.7113, or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

- Max Width: 162cm (63.75")
- Max Depth: 3.5cm (1.5")
- Max Height: 175cm (69")
- Folded Width: 54cm (21.25")
- Folded Depth: 12cm (4.75")
- Folded Height: 175cm (69")

