

Antique Serving Ewer, English, Ceramic, Decorative, Amphora, Victorian, C.1876

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.7046

This is an antique serving ewer. An English, ceramic decorative amphora by Doulton of Lambeth, dated to the Victorian period, 1876.

- Quality example of Victorian Doulton
- Displaying a desirable aged patina
- Ceramic of the highest order and free from cracks or marks
- Palette of brown and blue hues beneath a clear, bright glaze
- Wonderfully globular body with sinuous swan neck handle
- A hand-painted band of cobalt blue decorates the tall neck
- Regal masques adorn the neck and base of the handle respectively
- Fascinating raised flower heads, prominent with petals of white and blue
- Large leaf-shaped panels host foliate patterns around the body of the ewer
- Deep rolled rim to base finished in a palette of amber-browns
- Maker's mark to base for Doulton, Lambeth and dated 1876

Search London Fine for #18.7046 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 14.5cm (5.75")

Max Depth: 13cm (5")

Max Height: 23cm (9")

LIST PRICE

£875.00

