

Vintage Anglepoise Lamp, English, Desk, Architect's Light, Bibliophile, C.1960

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.7310

This is a vintage anglepoise lamp. An English, steel and aluminium desk or architect's light with bibliophile base, dating to the mid 20th century, circa 1960.

- Pleasingly mounted lamp suitable for the bibliophile
- Displaying a desirable aged patina - in good working order
- Steel and aluminium anglepoise frame with painted grey finish
- Bound books to base in pleasingly vintage condition
- Fully-adjustable anglepoise frame with four springs
- Useful adjustment range of 97cm from its lowest to highest extent
- Articulated lampshade can double back on itself to light the base
- Stamped with the US Patent No. 2787434 from 1957
- Original supplier's label for 1001 Lamps of Bromley, London
  - The base crafted from three original hardback books in graduated size creating a tiered form
    - The Deer Slayer, the 1848 edition of Chambers' Journal and a volume of the Encyclopaedia Britannica

Search London Fine for #18.7310, or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Base Width: 23.5cm (9.25")
 Base Depth: 28.5cm (11.25")
 Lowered Height: 52cm (20.5")
 Extended Height: 130cm (51.25")

LIST PRICE

£745.00

