

Vintage Pocket Compass, English, Brass, Navigation Instrument, Late 20th Century

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.7471

This is a vintage pocket compass. An English, brass navigation instrument in the manner of Stanley of London, dating to the late 20th century.

- Pleasingly weathered and of miniature fascination
- Displays a desirable aged patina throughout
- Polished and tarnished brass case offers shimmering tones
- Lid decorated with an engraved tall ship motif and the mark 'Stanley, London 1885'
- Clear, bright dial with a face diameter of 2.5cm (1")
- Displaying cardinal and intercardinal points, the needle accentuated with red paint
- The screw cap lid inscribed to the reverse with the poem 'Inner and Outer Time' by Jean Barlow Hudson

- Screw mount to the rear of the compass offers a safe haven for the lid during use

This is a charming vintage pocket compass, with appealing weathering, pleasing tactility and of pocket sized proportion. Delivered polished ready to enjoy.

Search London Fine for #18.7471 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 4cm (1.5")

Max Depth: 4cm (1.5")

Max Height: 2.5cm (1")

