DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.8128

This is an antique cased optometrist's set. An English, mahogany optical instrument box, dating to the late Victorian period, circa 1900.

- Fine display value to this cased set
- Displaying a desirable aged patina throughout
- 211 lens inserts present for the left and right eyes
- Commensurate with age and commercial use, some lenses absent
- Quality case, with fine grain interest and rich caramel hues
- Charming rotary latches secure the case, with inset lock to centre – key absent
- Brass name plaque to the lid, unmarked with weathered appearance
- Lid interior lined with blue, silk cotton fabric - some minor loss
- Magnifying glass and adjustment measure add further interest

This is a delightful antique cased optometrist's set, with great display appeal and scientific interest. Ideal for showcasing within a collection or an institution. Delivered polished and ready to enjoy.
