

Vintage Decorative Screen, Japanese, Hardwood, Privacy, Room Divider, C.1950

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.8189

This is a vintage 5' 6" tall decorative screen. A Japanese, hardwood and glass privacy or room divider with hand-painted panels, dating to the mid 20th century, circa 1950.

- Striking example of Japanese iconography
- Displays a desirable aged patina - some marks commensurate with age
- Stout ebonised hardwood frame pleasingly heavy and robust
- Glass panels in very good order with clear, bright appearance
- Quartet of generously sized fabric scenes with hand-painted decoration
- Charming birds of paradise and storks presented upon a blush pink ground
- Cobalt blue ground to reverse accentuated with character marks and candle motif
- Gilt finished Greek key patterns contrast wonderfully against the black frame
- Of bi-fold form, the screen can fold flat in both directions or at right angles for room corners

corners

- Lower front panel replete with relief dragon figures in shimmering golden tones
- Reverse presents an engraved and gilt finished mountain scene with pagoda and sail boat boat

Search London Fine for #18.8189, or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 117cm (46")

Max Depth: 7.5cm (3")

Max Height: 167.5cm (66")

Folded Width: 58cm (22.75")

Folded Depth: 15.5cm (6")

Folded Height: 167.5cm (66")

