

Vintage Art Bronze, French, Fine Cast Sculpture, Lion, After Barye, Circa 1950

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.7006

This is a vintage art bronze. A French, fine cast sculpture of a lion and serpent, after Antoine-Louis Barye, dating to the mid 20th century, circa 1950.

- In the manner of one of the early 19th century's foremost animalier - or animal sculptor - Antoine-Louis Barye (French, 1796-1875)

- Highly appealing rendition of the 'Lion au Serpent' of 1832 and later
- Displays a desirable aged patina and in very good order
- Quality, fine cast bronze shows appealing tonality and superb detail throughout
- Fine mane detail and muscular haunches a delightful study of natural interest
- The brave serpent, head reared defiantly against his fate beneath the large beast
- Presented upon a thick, oval plinth of Belgian Black marble
- Signed to front A. Barye in homage to the distinguished original artist

This is a highly appealing vintage art bronze, with a fascinating energy and cast to a high quality after a 19th century original. Set to enhance any display cabinet or mantelpiece. Delivered polished and ready to enjoy.
