DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.9252

This is a vintage cinema projector lamp. An American, converted decorative accent light, dating to the mid 20th century, circa 1940.

- Captivating lamp conversion for the collector of cinematic interest
- Displays a desirable aged patina and in good order
- Stout crackle-finished metal body presents appealing grey hues
- Modern conversion to a lamp sympathetic to the original piece
- Complete with a quality length of braided cable and a British Standards compliant 3-pin plug

3-pin plug

- LED strip lights delightfully wound around the film spools, atop original film stock
- Secondary lamp fitted within the housing, beneath a green semi-opaque cover
- Maker's Label to the casing for Eastman Kodak of Rochester, New York
- The Kodascope Eight Model 80 was the company's premier 8mm projector in the mid 20th century

This is a fascinating vintage cinema projector lamp, with a superb conversion to the modern era with LED lighting. Delivered polished and ready to enjoy.
