

Pair Of Antique Demi Lune End Tables, English, Side, Reception Hall, Regency

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.9428

This is a pair of antique demi-lune end tables. An English, mahogany side table, dating to the Regency period, circa 1820.

- Superior quality tables, with delightful Regency craftsmanship
- Displaying a desirable aged patina and in good order
- Select stocks present fine grain interest with rich caramel hues
- Can be adjoined to form a centre table, four brass table links included
- Appealing curved corners to the top surface and shaped apron beneath
- Useful drawer to centre with deep fascia and exposed dovetail joints
- Dressed with a brass drop handle, the decorative backplate with serpent motif
- Riding smoothly upon original castors, each leg decorated with concentric turned bands

This is a striking pair of antique demi-lune tables, ideal for the reception hall, larger room or joining together for occasional use. Great colour and craftsmanship. Solid joints and construction, delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
