

Antique Collegiate Map, Cambridge, English, Framed Cartography, Victorian, 1838

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 24479

This is an antique collegiate map of Cambridge. An English, framed coloured lithograph of cartographic interest by Thomas Moule, dating to the early Victorian period, circa 1838.

Thomas Moule (1784 - 1851) was an influential map maker of the Victorian era, with a further interest in heraldry and an active antiquarian. His maps offer an abundance of detail and visual interest, accentuated with coat of arms and engraved local interest in the form of landscapes or architectural study.

- Superb street map of Cambridge, highlighting its famous academic colleges
- Displays a desirable aged patina within a later, quality frame
- Lithography on paper with an appealing colour palette
- Reference key lists points of interest within the town
- Accentuated with the coat of arms of the prominent colleges and town itself
- Further decorated with an etching of Trinity College to the lower right corner
- Dressed to the rear with mounting loop for ease of hanging

This is a fascinating antique collegiate map of Cambridge, one of England's most famous university towns. Fine detail and great colour illustrates the town plan brilliantly. Perfect for those ...

+44 (0) 207 1833 511

Search London Fine for #24479 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 49cm (19.25")
 Max Depth: 2.5cm (1")
 Max Height: 44cm (17.25")
 Map Width: 25.5cm (10")
 Map Height: 20cm (7.75")

LIST PRICE

£495.00

